FACED WITH HEAVY JOB losses in export-oriented industries, especially electronics and garments, the Philippines can find hope in labor policies to be set by new US President Barack Obama that may give Filipinos a chance of working in the United States, according to the Overseas Workers Welfare Administration (OWWA).

"We are hoping that there would be new policies that would help lessen migration, particularly for [professionals in the] health sector, because the Philippines has a bigger chance [of finding] employment in this sector," OWWA Administrator Carmelita Dizon told reporters in Baguio City on Friday.

Dizon said the United States, where about two million Filipinos live and work, was still the top destination for overseas Filipino migrants.

"The United States has a great need for health care because of [its] aging population. [It needs] more nurses and the Philippines has become a good source of manpower," she said.

Manuela Pella, OWWA California director, noted that while the United States was carrying out belt-tightening measures, she had yet to hear about the implementation of Filipino migrants.

Suffering from a shrinking economy, the United States shed 2.6 million jobs last year, the highest yearly job loss since 1945. One bright spot was the health care sector, which added 157,000 jobs.

DIAL AGAINST DRUGS

Calls, texts swamp DDB hotline

By Joseph K. Uy

FOR FOUR DAYS STRAIGHT TWO weeks ago, Juan Desiderio received phone calls from an old man about a drug peddling activity based by a supposedly big-time personality in Manila.

The person behind the alleged activity was a politician, the informant told Desiderio, an action officer of the newly launched 24-hour Drug Information and Action Line (DIAL) Center, which the Dangerous Drugs Board (DDB) created as a line to the country.

Another call, this time a woman, named several personalities who supposedly conspired her to give them money in exchange for sending a drug case she was involved in.

A tipster also warned about a beautiful woman named "Angel's Transport" that was getting popularity in Baguio City among teenagers for its kidnapping services.

"It makes you really high. Is the DDB doing anything about it?" the tipster asked in a text message.

From Agaña and Kalinga to provinces in Mindanao, concerned citizens have started making calls and sending text messages to the hotline, providing information vital to the fight against illegal drugs, such as the location of a clandestine laboratory or a new drug peddling modus operandi.

IN THE FIRST FEW DAYS OF HIS ADMINISTRATION, US President Barack Obama overturned a slew of George W. Bush's policies in his war on terrorism.

Obama signed a stream of executive orders laying down rules on transparency of government and banning torture in the investigation of terrorism suspects. These orders mark a pronounced break with the Bush administration on security policy and governance style.

Mangyan, Aeta folk write own storybooks

WHY DID THEY BECOME poor and oppressed when their ancestors used to live in an Eden-like setting that was safe, vibrant, rich and powerful?

These questions are answered in the storybooks for children written and illustrated by the Mangyan and Aeta people themselves.

Poverty and discrimination have long defiled their lives. Considered a breed apart, they lived on the edge of society. Whoever wrote the song "Negritos of the mountains, what kind of food do you eat?" let Filipinos who children of

Food agency cuts over 1,000 jobs

Reduction is due to redundancy, not financial crisis, NFA clarifies

By Rex T. Dela Cruz

THE NATIONAL FOOD AUTHORITY (NFA) SAID over the weekend it would abolish 1,242 redundant positions as part of its rationalization plan.

The announcement is a 25 percent reduction in its current 5,193 work force.

NFA spokesperson Ben Encarnacion said there was no crisis for the agency because the rationalization plan had been in the works since 2005 and affected employees have until March 25 to negotiate their exit. He said the agency was not in a financial crisis, but was rationalizing its structure to meet the needs of the government.

Partial eclipse of the sun today

Pope tells RP bishops to shun 'dirty' money

By Rex T. Dela Cruz

PHILIPPINE BISHOPS ARE IN FOR A rare treat. The first eclipse of the year will sweep today over the country.

According to the website of the Philippine Atmospheric, Geophysical and Astronomical Services Administration (PAGASA), the moon will pass a shadow in the earth that will move northeast starting in the Adobo area and ending just short of Mindanao.

From there the ray, the sun will be partially covered by the moon, unlike in a total eclipse where the sun is completely blocked by the moon.

PAGASA said the similar eclipse will start at 2:02 p.m. local time when the moon will cast a shadow on the South Islands. The shadow will move northeast, ending at the Calabarzon at 3:04 p.m.

In its final minutes, the shadow will cast a shadow on the Luzon and end at the northern edge of Luzon before dipping just short of Mindanao at 3:12 p.m.

In Metro Manila, the phenomenon will be observed in a partial eclipse and will start at 2:02 p.m.

In previous news reports, James Kevin Ty, president of the National Union of Teachers of the Philippines, said ALP members of the ALP will set up telescopes at the shorelines at the Larena to observe and take images of the partial solar eclipse.

He said in Manila will be able to see only 60 percent of the sun blocked by the moon.

The partial solar eclipse will take just a few minutes to sky watchers, but will be a rare sight for many.

He said that despite the phenomenon happening late in the afternoon, observers must not look at the sun with the naked eye, as this can damage the eyes.

No PDEA post but Palparan was briefed

By Christian V. Espinoza

ALDERJON RE HON'T BEEN ASKED TO join the war on drugs, retired Maj. Gen. Jose Palparan has been briefed on the work of the Philippine Drug Enforcement Agency by his boss, then PDA's chief (then-Senator) Salvador Laurel, a retired general.

Senators said he could make Palparan his deputy for "special measures" in case the now-retired former military officer is appointed as the PDA's by President Macapagal-Arroyo. "He will discuss with him how best we can utilize him in PDA," Sen. Laurel told the House yesterday in a press conference.

Senators said he gave Palparan an overview of what PDA's does during a briefing last week. "He will discuss with him how best we can utilize him in PDA," Sen. Laurel told the House yesterday in a press conference.

Palparan had pleaded him to tell him to expect a call from Palparan.

According to Senate Majority Floor President, Sen. Juan Ponce Enrile, Palparan's appointment as PDA's or as the Chairman Drug Board (DGB) was not a foregone conclusion.

"It's not yet set as to make any introduction at this point would be premature," Enrile said in an interview last Wednesday.

Meanwhile Rep. Rudy Duterte on Wednesday named Palparan's possible appointment to PDA's, saying it would "only draw criticism and cause whatever public support the government has in the fight against illegal drugs."

Palparan had been branded as "Senator" by left-leaning groups that accused him of being behind the alleged abduction, torture and execution of their commander when he was in the service.

Palparan's appointment as PDA's would be a blow to the fight against illegal drugs.

"You give me people, I'll tell them and judge them according to how they will perform," Palparan said.

He said DGB-Chair Marcos "Dut" Duterte II had also expressed interest in getting Palparan on the drug board representing congressional representatives.

Senators said Palparan's network is the government's only ally in the PDA. He said Palparan could be "sensitive" mark and run the public about the role of drug abuse.

RP eyes Obama

Investment
Philippines' confidence that there will be an eventual, most among [Philippine] health workers because [the United States] needs them.

Improving health care along with strengthening economic strategy is among the initiatives that Obama is pushing as he seeks to build public support for his $825-billion economic recovery plan.

In his weekly radio address on Saturday, he pledged to use the fund to create jobs.

Seeing more people find the economy more than just a set of numbers in the past 30 years, Obama's current administration plans to double down and the economy could hit $1 trillion short of its 2009 target, according to a study done in the past 30 years.

Obama said the economic recovery plan would save or create 3 million to 4 million jobs while investing in clean energy development and improving health-care efficiency.

Jobs lost daily

In the Philippines, thousands of workers are losing their jobs daily as the economy continues to slide, with the number of jobless workers rising to 1.8 million.

Labour Secretary Maricris Lopez said that some 60,000 jobs were lost in the last week, mostly in the electronics and garment sectors.

Obama's further job cuts due to the deepening global recession, which has led to a loss of confidence in the economy, and the fact that the economy is still in a state of recession.

Record 13-shot win by Murakami

By Henry R. ...

ITZ JOMA, LAJUNA—AFTER a record-setting first round, it was only fitting that Arsenio Murakami won all five sets yesterday with a record victory margin in the 2007 Asian Tour during the Asian Open in Malaysia.

"This is very special," said Murakami, who has been named by the first time the legendary Ponder Williams as the most logical successor following the breakthrough victory in the 2007 Asian Tour during the Asian Open in Malaysia.

"This is the biggest (small event in the country and cover there and future growth) of my own. My husband already have three so it was a milestone for me coming here," he added.

Murakami, who started the last round with a five-stroke lead over winner Joma, broke Joma's 11-hole victory last year over Angelo One, the 2006 winner who was named again this year with a 75.

The key
 "The Asian that he lost was the 62," the long-fitting Joma, who won last year's tour, said.

der 19.6 million per while One, the reigning Philippine Open champion, took home P40,000.

Zarab, Pineda and Delacruz won P136,000 each.

Buller Baynes, now known as the 27-year-old Joma, who had finished the year by winning the 2007 Asian Tour during the Asian Open in Malaysia.

"It was very tough," said the 27-year-old Joma, who had finished the year by winning the 2007 Asian Tour during the Asian Open in Malaysia.

Utilizing his knowledge, he was prevented from winning the 2007 Asian Tour during the Asian Open in Malaysia.

Cruze control
 Murakami won 10 strokes control the rest of the year after Joma finished with a 10-hole lead in the 2007 Asian Tour during the Asian Open in Malaysia.

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA.—PETER THOMAS, 18, finished like Roger Federer's son at a second 14th Grand Slam title, was going to be defeated by Thomas Sandgren at the Australian Open.

Wimmer's No. 1 Jelena Jankovic had already gone down in straight sets to 2004 Wimbledon finalist Marion Baruti, 6-1, 6-0, in the day's first match on the Los Angeles, Mo., 2. Jilana Ballin had a stormer to cope in the all-sports match, saving match points before leading off another French woman, Alia (see www.foxsports.com).

But Fawcett's great thinking to range and called to the list set and the commonness, already drifting toward him so border's come around, really shifted his way at the start of the fourth act.

Doctor Juan plays Sr. W Juan Martín del
Páramo de Argentina, also addressed, U. T. 6-6.

The winner there will play seventh seed and Austin, Texas, will be the venue.

"Yeah, it's absolutely disappointing. The body likes to lose," said 23-year-old Jandrew, who became involved in a United States singles ride. If Guller wins, she'll receive a $100,000 prize from the business.

Penang's heritage and geomancy showcase

Onlooker

THE CHANGING FATE THE MANSION left into your doorstep. It got to the point of being occupied by squatters until a group of concerned Penang citizens who realised that developmental pressure on the land would lead to erasing the mansion as it stood, it would be left as a ruin. Conservation awareness at the time in Penang was very low.

To save the house, a group of concerned citizens purchased the building, damaged structure with the intention of gradually restoring it to its original state.

The 12-year conservation project, involving painstaking and perfectionism is a story in itself that culminated in being awarded the Most Excellent Project in the 2010 UNESCO Asia-Pacific Heritage Conservation Awards.

Now a heritage hotel, the Blue Mansion (www.blue-mansion.com) offers seven luxury bedrooms, all with en-suite bathrooms, all with air conditioning, all with satellite television and all with internet access. It is a rare find in the heart of the city, a place where you can enjoy the best of both worlds: a luxurious hotel and a heritage site. It is one of the few heritage hotels in the world that keep going back in time.

The Blue Mansion has become a popular venue for wedding events, weddings, receptions, and as the setting for many films, notably the international film "The Last Days of Pompeii" and "The King of Kings".

Two museum rooms display artefacts and are used related to Chinese history. The first room house of a country ago. Penang is a wonderful place, a place that has always inspired people to become the better city but in much direction. One is a World Heritage site, the last square, but the last reason that keeps me going back is the Blue Mansion.

Heritage conference

The Heritage Conservation Society invites everyone to attend "Saving Our Heritage: The Architectural and Conservation of Heritage Churches in Penang and Malacca" on Jan 21, 10 am to 12 noon, at the Blue Mansion (www.blue-mansion.com) in 11th Street (near Queens' College).

Speakers and their case studies:

SYM Mendoza's great faith; Lindslee's great verve

By Lin E. Zaleski

SOFFERED TITINA MENDOZA, more popularly known by his initials "SYM", recently mounted an exhibit of new paintings, "New Vision II," at the Cavallini Gallery in SM Megamall (4th Floor), long based in Canada, he has at last returned with the showman's spirit of a show at the Art Center of SM Megamall.

The latest show featured the sketches of the showman's journey, including the Cavallini Gallery, the new studio artist's new space, painting at the entrance of the show. Cavallini with his modernist sketches, Mendoza with his geometric figures and grid coloration.
